showing our projects there this year. We will not be doing any tours this year.

We did have our first woodworkers meeting in four months last July 14. I was happy to see 23 folks show up including two potential future members. There were a number of projects for show and tell and photos or power point for those too large to bring in. We also had jigs and fixtures presentations. Everyone did a good job of social distancing and almost everyone wore a mask. I came as the Lone Ranger, ha ha.

I have been helping Steven Crouse finish seven of his famous TV trays/table. Woodworking with a friend is always fun and two heads are often better than one.

Keep sending your project photos for our newsletters show and tell. Share with everyone what you're making.
