Presidents Corner

Thanks to Steve Crouse for his help in putting together power point presentation and his helpful suggestions. The unassembled cathedral clock is now put together and finished with lacquer. Now it is time to get back to building my dome clock. I plan to finish making top of dome, spray it with lacquer, and bring it to show and tell for March meeting. I when online and bought a solid oak 36 x 36 x 16 inch table for only 20 dollars; right here in Cedar Falls. You can't even buy the wood for that. This will get clock up off the floor and I won't have to make a display table. The base of clock will be about 29 x 29 inches. This clock will stand about six and half feet off the floor when finished.

When I have to drill a large number of holes, it's a boring task.

We each approach woodworking in a very personal way, and we get our satisfaction from it in personal ways. The process of creating our projects is special for each of us. The smell of freshly cut wood. The beauty of the wood brought out when we apply the finish. The tremendous satisfaction in completing a project. For a lot of us, woodworking relieves stress from the daily grind. For those retired, it is a chance to do something we didn't have time for when we had to work to earn a living. An escape from boredom and maybe other things. I know when the love of my life, Lori died March of 2017, my woodworking helped me to cope with the grief and fill the void.

I enjoyed giving my talk on scroll saw techniques and assembly of the cathedral clock at the February meeting.
